Keep our Georgia strong is fine goal

By ROY POWELL
County Agent

KEEPING GEORGIA STRONG Among the 12 southern states, only 4 rank lower than Georgia in the amount of personal income spent on higher education.

If we are to compete with the other states in the country's fastest growing, most industrially competitive area, Georgia must better this ranking.

During the past 10 years per capita income in Georgia has been over 50 percent higher than in 1940. This is due to the fact that we are to expect a continuing increase in income of the citizens of this state, we must give much more than lip service to increasing support of the University System of Georgia. At the same time, we must bear in mind that every other state is also going to increase its percentage of personal income spent for higher education.

The University System needs the help of every citizen of Georgia to insure that it continues to grow. Only in this way can we produce the leadership sandwiches, potato chips, cherry tarts, and coffee.

High score was won by Mrs. Delma Rushing Jr., receiving a vase. Low score went to Mrs. Emory Brannen, receiving an ash tray, and cut went to Mrs. John Ed Brannen, receiving perfume, and visitor's high went to Mrs. Emory Brannen, receiving a box of candy.

Others playing were Mrs. Allison Davis, Mrs. Artha Temple, Mrs. Eubie Riggs, Mrs. H. H. Oliff Jr., Mrs. J. B. Johnson, Mrs. Otis Holloway, Mrs. Graham Bird, Mrs. T. L. Moore, Mrs. J. L. Banks, Mrs. Reginald Anderson, Mrs. L. J. Holloway, and Mrs. Jimmy Aker.

to direct Georgia to its rightful heritage as the Empire State of the South.

Without your help, the new manufacturing plants, the new pay rolls, the higher per capita income, and the increasingly better standard of living will not continue.

PAYING FOR WHAT YOU GET "You pay for what you get," is a statement with more truth than poetry. Never has this been more true than when talking of ornamental plants and seed of all kinds.

The money you spend for certified, treated seed or for first rate ornamental plants is the safest money you can spend.

Very often when special, special deals are offered, the seed or plants being sold are inferior.

Seed offered this way may have poor germination. It may be of varieties not adapted to our region. No treatment for seed borne diseases may have been given. And the seed might be a mixture of more than one variety.

Plants offered as special bargains also may not be adapted to our locality. They may not be certified as having been checked for serious diseases, or they may have been out of ground so long that they will not live.

So, before purchasing seed or ornamentals take a good look at what you are paying for. It could make the difference in obtaining or not obtaining the variety you want, seed which will or will not give a good stand, and perhaps getting healthy or diseased plants.

SKATE-R-BOWL BEGINS JUNIOR LEAGUE FOR TEEN-AGE BOWLERS

High Darley, manager of Nats Skate-R-Bowl, announced this week that plans are being made for a Junior Bowling League for local area teen-agers and all teen-agers that are interested are asked to contact Mr. Darley at the Skate-R-Bowl.

Teams already in the league are divided into two groups according to school class groups and are bowling on Friday afternoons and Saturday afternoons. Better balanced ratings, disease and pest control, and other improved practices brought about by research have convinced us that the use of urea to the sod surface increases effectiveness of the urea.

Senior Tri-Hi-Y meets at SHS Thursday, Jan. 12

By DOTIE DONALDSON

The St. Tri-Hi-Y held its monthly meeting Thursday, January 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Darlene Youmans gave a responsive reading along with the group on the ten commandments. Janet Kraft gave a program on thoughtfulness and the members discussed YMCA Week and the annual Youth Mayor Election which will take place after the mid-term tests.

Besides the resolution concerning religion, we should consider our social and physical welfare. Proper care of the individual is a very important factor. Ask yourself these questions: "Do I get proper rest?" "Do I eat the correct foods?" "Do I have adequate exercise?" If your answer is "No," then now is your chance to reform yourself through New Year's resolutions.

Mrs. Bice is Statesboro High Counselor

By HUBERT TANKERSLEY

For the first time, in 1959, Statesboro High School was privileged to have a full time counselor. For the first time we could find an answer for our every question from "where to go to college" to "why did I have to stay in yesterday."

Mrs. Leci Bice is never too busy to discuss any problem a student may have. Mrs. Bice is a very capable and understanding person. She has won the admiration and respect of all the students and faculty at Statesboro High School.

Mrs. Bice received her B. S. degree from the University of Missouri, and her Masters from the University of Georgia. She has taught at three Georgia high schools, Norman Junior College, and business administration at the University of Georgia.

New Year's Resolutions

Perhaps a more appropriate question concerns our intellectual ability and our study habits. If you are the type of individual who does not conform to routine, now is your chance for a change to proper study habits. As the old saying goes, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." This old proverb can also be reversed, "All play and no work makes Jack a dull boy." Perhaps some individuals do not understand the depth and importance of knowledge. Learning is a gift that no one can take away and a gift that no one can give. The information is there and taking the opportunity of grasping it is left up to the individual.

In making your New Year's resolutions, consider all of the above factors. Study them over; sit down and make out a list of your individual resolutions and decide to really concentrate on keeping the ones you make.

Are You Prepared?

By JOHN BROCK

In these times of turmoil and trouble we should think seriously about the future and what it holds for us. Are we going to let things just happen as they may or are we going to do something about them. Now is the time for preparation, now is the time to think about what you are going to do with your later life. Will you go out into the world ready to cope with any situation that may arise or will you go out into the world depending on luck alone to pull you through? These are the questions that you must ask yourself now determines what you will be in later life.

School is a place of preparation, both mentally and emotionally. In school you prepare yourself with knowledge for problems that may come up in the future. You can also prepare yourself socially by learning to get along with people while in the high school. If you can't wait to get out of high school so you can get away from all the people you don't like, you will probably be running all of your life. People are about the same wherever you go. In school you should take the subjects that will help you the most, not the ones you can make the best grades in or pass the easiest.

Although we should take school seriously, fun does have its place. But we can't spend too much time on fun. As Benjamin Franklin said, "But, dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of." You will spend about one-fifth of your life in school. That one-fifth will have a great influence on the rest of your life. So statistics should be given serious consideration.

Only one person can determine when you are prepared for the outside world. You are that person. Are you prepared?

Plan Growth The self-study is not a status study only but is one which should make it possible for the institution to project its educational program and to plan its growth within the framework of its purpose.

The self-study will stress the institution-wide character of all schools and divisions involved. The two-year self-study by an institution must be comprehensive and include every important facet of the institution.

Purpose Given The purpose of the self-study is a critical analysis of the institution itself, with frank recognition of weaknesses and problems, with recommendations for solutions to the problems. There must also be indications of differences of opinion where these have developed in course of the study.

The report will stress the critical areas, unique programs, and facets of the institution which are of special interest or concern to the faculty, administration, and governing board.

The members of the Self-Study Committee will be announced within a few days.

Here's how "open schools" legislation works

As we write this (Tuesday morning) the General Assembly in Atlanta is ready to begin voting on Governor Vandiver's "open schools" legislation.

The governor asked Monday for the unanimous support of his program to keep the schools of Georgia open. His program includes pupil placement, local option and tuition grants.

The program, when analyzed, will have the effect of letting cities keep their schools open—and integrated. And it seems certain that if Governor Vandiver's legislation is approved that is exactly what will happen in Atlanta next September. School leaders there, with desegregation ordered, already are letting out sighs of relief.

Conversely, small towns and rural areas could vote to close their schools when or if they faced a court desegregation decree. If they decided after a few months that school with some integration are better than none at all, they could vote to reopen.

Under the local option part of the program a school board could by resolution of a majority of its members call an election on the question of suspending schools.

The calling of such an election would be mandatory when the board is presented a petition signed by at least 15 per cent of the registered voters in the district.

If a majority votes for suspension, the board would be required to close the schools.

Principals, teachers and other personnel would continue to draw salary until they got other jobs or their contracts expired.

A system with closed schools would continue to receive state funds.

An election on reopening would be attained by the same method.

A board would not be required to call a second election on either closing or opening if one election already has been held in the school year.

When schools are closed in any local system, the compulsory attendance law becomes invalid there.

What happens if a system votes school closure? Do the children roam the alleys or the fields during the time which never can be replaced by their studies?

Not necessarily so. That's where a state grants-in-aid-phase would become operative.

Our hats off to Statesboro Jaycees

Because young Henry Giessen-bier of Saint Louis, Missouri, felt that young men should not have to wait until middle age to participate in civic affairs, a new organization, which we have come to know as "The Jaycees," came into being officially on January 21, 1920.

The new organization promoted projects aimed at securing greater participation in government, a better relationship among agriculture, industry, and labor, less juvenile delinquency and a host of other activities.

The Jaycee idea grew so fast that now more than 200,000 young men are in 2,500 Young Men's Chamber of Commerce organizations over the nation, all dedicated to making their communities better places in which to live.

The Jaycee idea came to Statesboro in 1939 when a group of young men here wished to be included in the things designed to improve their home community.

Since then the Statesboro Jaycees have justified their existence and then some.

Their creed explains why:

WE BELIEVE:

That faith in God gives meaning and purpose to life;

That brotherhood of man transcends the sovereignty of nations;

That economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise;

That government should be of laws rather than of men;

That earth's greatest treasure lies in human personality;

And that service to humanity is the best work of life.

And because the young men of our community who are Jaycees subscribe to this creed, we commend them for all they have done to add to the growth and development of Statesboro and Bulloch County and wish for them many more years of service here.

"ALL I WANT for my birthday is a hamster," she said. A strange request, it seemed to me, coming from an eight-year-old daughter. But, that is all she wanted. And except for the one time he bit her, she has been quite happy.

What an animal! A hamster is not as much like a common rat as most people think. I understand that it was first imported to this country because of the value of their fur. Since they are prolific, (you can begin with one pair and have a hundred thousand within a year) they are also profitable for scientific research.

The hamster is a vegetarian and nocturnal in his habits. Fastened in the center of his cage is a treadmill fashioned after a cricket box. After the household settles down at night, one can hear the click-click of the treadmill as the hamster begins his nightly run. Around and around it goes, and all the time, he is getting nowhere! When morning comes and the household begins to stir, he yawns and is ready to settle down for the day's siesta.

THE HAMSTER can teach the human several much-needed lessons. It is unwise to judge a person simply by first impression or first appearance. The minute some people look at a hamster they consign him to the lower regions of ratdom. This is unwise, for while he is of the rodent clan, he possesses characteristics strange to the ordinary rat.

We humans judge far too rapidly by first appearance and impression. In so doing, we miss the joy of expanding friendship, the need to respect the life-values of others. We must seek to find again our purpose for living. Under God we must begin anew!

AROUND AND AROUND we go—getting nowhere! The hamster's nocturnal habit mimics our own. We must seek to find again our purpose for living. Under God we must begin anew!

THE HAMSTER can teach the human several much-needed lessons. It is unwise to judge a person simply by first impression or first appearance. The minute some people look at a hamster they consign him to the lower regions of ratdom. This is unwise, for while he is of the rodent clan, he possesses characteristics strange to the ordinary rat.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is another of the "Why I Like to Live in Statesboro" essays written by members of the Senior Citizens group at the Recreation Center.

WHY I LIKE TO LIVE IN STATESBORO Georgia, the Empire State of the South, is the largest state east of the Mississippi River, and Statesboro, to me, is the "heart" of the Southern Empire. It has a dignity and serene charm unequalled by any city in the state and here hospitality and comfort are found in even the most out-of-the-way places.

I have often been ridiculed and told, when I expressed sentiments about my home town, that I was a "Cracker" do not know any better, small town, that I was born and lived in Statesboro for practically fifty years—a fact that I am proud of. But I have experienced life in a larger town also. The "hustle and bustle" of a city—where you seldom know your neighbors—is not my idea of real living.

In our metropolis, the quiet, easy pace is so inviting—a most a paradise for older people, who enjoy fishing in their "back-yard" ponds. There are also attractions for almost every age and taste, such as bowling, skating, swimming and dancing.

THE TYPICAL newspaper gremlin—really were riding the news story last week about our friend Herman Bray being promoted to vice president and cashier of the Sea Island Bank. The simple fact is that C. P. Olliff Sr., chairman of the board of the bank, has been promoted to vice president and cashier of the bank by the board of directors of the Sea Island Bank. But the Bulloch Herald had the announcement coming from C. P. Olliff Sr., chairman of the board of the bank, and that "the board of directors of the bank were D. P. Averitt, R. J. Brown, C. B. McAllister, C. P. Olliff Sr., A. B. McDougald, H. Z. Smith, Everett Williams and J. B. Johnson." Then in Sunday's Atlanta Journal the news story of Herman's promotion read:

BANK PROMOTES HERMAN BRAY OF STATESBORO It was a bad week for newspaper editors.

AND NOW GEORGIA has another news story. A company named Hiram is making a moonshine liquor and putting it up in an old timey fruit jar and doing it legally and according to government specifications. Therefore, I hope to live the remainder of my life here in the small town, among friends, trying to live a good American citizen.

By E. T. "RED" MULLIS Soil Conservation Service

The old year - 1960 - is history. We look with great hope to the New Year - 1961. I always like to look back on the old year and take stock of our accomplishments in Soil and Water Conservation.

The year 1960 saw great strides forward in Soil and Water Conservation. The Soil Conservation District of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District were added in Bulloch County. Twenty-nine basic conservation plans were prepared covering 6,525 acres of land. This brings to a total of 248 farms in Bulloch County with basic conservation plans.

Other important accomplishments include 1,600 acres of conservation, crop rotations; 3,120 feet of bank grass field borders; 2,500 acres of mulch farming; 1,100 acres pasture planting; 1,300 acres of tree planting; 500 acres woodland thinning; 50 fish ponds stocked with brook trout; 36 acres wildlife area plantings; 20 acres waterways established; 11 miles of parallel terraces; 11 farm ponds and 7 miles of drainage ditches.

During 1960 we served 654 District Cooperators and 79 ACP participants.

All in all, 1960 was a very productive year in Soil and Water Conservation. But we hope that 1961 will be even more productive. Our total workload is increasing steadily with the same personnel to do the increased work. We are hopeful that this may be remedied in the future.

High nitrogen fertilization of high nitrogen crops may be of value in increasing the protein content of the grain as well as its general effect on the soil.

Clipping to February 15 has been the responsibility of monitoring radioactive fallout for the Office of Civil Defense, with training necessary to do this job.

For instance our ACP participants increased from 51 in 1959 to 79 in 1960, an increase of nearly 65%.

Then recently we have been given the responsibility of monitoring radioactive fallout for the Office of Civil Defense, with training necessary to do this job.

Statesboro Music Club meets with Mrs. Frank Mikell

Music Club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Mikell on Tuesday evening, January 17. A program on "Music used for Therapy" was presented by members of the club. Railroad Williams discussed the history of musical therapy and Mrs. Carrol Horning reported on the interesting and amazing use of therapeutic music in modern medicine and industry. Dr. Ronald Neal illustrated for the audience the influence of music on the emotions by playing records designed to arouse certain emotions such as gaiety, sadness, or excitement. During this time variegated colored lights were played on the audience to heighten the effect.

Mrs. Mikell co-ordinated the arrangements on the mantle, coffee table, and dining table. She and her hostesses, Mrs. John Wallace, Mrs. Frank Farr, and Mrs. Jake Smith served the guests cake, salted nuts, and coffee.

Mrs. Lamar Trapnell entertained the No Trump Bridge Club

Mrs. J. F. Spiers won china bridge numbers for high. Mrs. E. L. Anderson received a coin compact for floating and a flower brass for cut work.

It is better to make a light pruning of young pine trees every year or two than to make than in any previous year, says Extension Forester Dorsey Dyer.

More Christmas tree seedlings were planted in Georgia in 1960 than in any previous year, says Extension Forester B. R. Murray.

TRYING TO BALANCE a budget can put a lady in the darkest kind of mood. But there is one item that always makes the job easier—low-cost electricity.

Over the years the price of electric service has been generally downward. In fact, the average price per kilowatt-hour of electricity paid by our residential customers has dropped more than 65 per cent since 1930.

That's quite a contrast to the over-all cost of living, which has jumped 46 per cent.* For instance, the cost of food has increased 52 per cent; rent, 21 per cent, and clothing, 48 per cent.

Count all the jobs electricity does for you—cleaning, cooking, washing, lighting, heating, cooling, even entertaining. Then, think of how little you pay.

You haven't known another bargain like this in 30 years!

Herman Talmadge Reports

THERE ARE TWO courses open to a United States Senator seeking to halt and reverse the accelerating federal judicial destruction of individual freedom and constitutional government in this country. One is to propose constitutional amendments to correct judicial acts which have the effect of amending the Constitution to its provisions. The other is to introduce legislation to exercise the Constitutional power of Congress to declare the jurisdiction of federal courts. This month for the third time since taking my seat in the Senate I have taken both courses with respect to the crisis created by the Supreme Court's school decision of May 17, 1954. In addition, I also have offered for the third time my three companion bills to restore the federal judiciary to its appointed constitutional role.

NINE OF MY Southern colleagues joined with me in submitting the Talmadge School Amendment which, if approved by Congress and ratified by three-fourths of the States, would end for all times the continuing controversy which is disrupting the progress of education in the United States by writing into the Constitution the guarantee that "notwithstanding any other provision of this Constitution, every State shall have exclusive control of its public schools, public educational institutions and public educational systems."

The four bills which I introduced for myself, three of them with the co-sponsorship of Senator Allen Ellender of Louisiana, would: (1) require Supreme Court Justices to have as a minimum qualification at least five years of substantial judicial experience; (2) require the Supreme Court to accord full hearings to all parties before acting upon lower court decisions; (3) require jury trials in all cases of contempt arising from the disobedience of any federal court order; and (4) withdraw the jurisdiction of all federal courts over matters relating to the administration of public schools by the States and their subdivisions.

THE LONG ARM of judicial tyranny has grown to alarming proportions since 1954 and, in recent weeks, we have seen it stretched even further to enjoin elected governors and state legislatures from performing their sworn duties to administer and finance public institutions and farmers from exercising their right as free men to decide who shall and shall not work for them.

Unless this trend toward judicial dictatorship is checked, the guarantees of the Constitution will be rendered meaningless and freedom will perish. The amendment and bills which I have proposed constitute what I consider to be a minimum affirmative program for preventing such a dread eventuality and the people of Georgia may be assured that I shall seek their enactment in every way open to me for as long as I have the privilege of serving them in the Senate of the United States.

Gymnasts Prep For Meet With Georgia Jan. 28

by Bob Cochran Jr.

The Georgia Southern gymnastics team is preparing to host the University of Georgia team in a meet during the homecoming weekend. After suffering defeat at the hands of the Citadel in their first collegiate competition, the Southern squad is looking forward to this meet Saturday, January 28, 1961.

Not much is known about the Georgia team but it is believed that they are strong in the rope climb and the long horse vault. Mr. Yeager thinks that we will be stronger on the "p" bars, the still rings, and the side horse. Mr. Yeager states that the team as a whole is making fast progress, and the team shows a great deal of improvement since the Citadel met. He added that our team is doing better than average for a first year team.

A week after homecoming the GSC team will travel to Athens to compete in a three-way meet with the University of Georgia and the Citadel. The three teams are about equal in strength, and we have a good chance of splitting the points and coming out the winner.

There will be an admission fee of 25 cents to the homecoming meet. The gymnastics team receives no money from the activity fund, and the team needs the money to make the trips to the other meets.

By CARROLL DENMARK

The Yellow Jackets of Southeast Bulloch easily won their seventh game of the season by defeating Metter by a score of 55 to 37. This game was played on Monday, January 16, in order not to conflict with mid-term exams scheduled for later in the week.

On Friday night of this week the Yellow Jackets traveled down to Greenville to take on the tough, but once called Bulldogs. Greenville, enabling to score 35 points to Southeast Bulloch's 27, came out on top by a score of 53 to 41. This game was the second meeting between the two clubs. In the first game the Yellow Jackets took a thrilling and heart stinging victory in overtime by a score of 51 to 50.

Southeast Bulloch's next home game will be on Friday night of this week against a tough, but can be handled Hinesville club. This game is expected to be filled with all the fireworks that the first game encountered. We urge everyone to go see these two fine ball teams in action when they meet face to face in the SEBH gymnasium.

The scores for the two games mentioned above are as follows: Wayne Shuman leading the list with 37 total points followed by Jerry Lanier with 18, Carroll Denmark with 16, Buddy Anderson with 4, and Calvin Shuman with 3.

County leaders meet to study problems, how to meet them

More than sixty people of Statesboro and Bulloch County, including business, industrial, civic, religious and women leaders, gathered at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen on Monday evening of this week to study problems which beset this community and to seek ways and means of meeting them.

The meeting was sponsored by the Extension Service of the College of Agriculture of the University of Georgia, W. H. Smith, Jr., president. The Bulloch County Bank, the Sea Island Bank, the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Brookline, the Farm Bureau and the Statesboro and Bulloch County Chamber of Commerce were hosts at the meeting.

Mr. Wynn said that the county has 91 miles of county roads and 8.8 miles of streets under the state post roads program; 18.1 miles under the state rural roads program; 10.2 miles under the federal secondary highway program and 13.6 miles under the federal primary highway program. He pointed out that the post roads are financed 100 percent by the state, that the rural roads were financed 100 percent by the state, that the federal secondary highway program pays half of the construction cost with the county securing the rights of way and that the federal primary system helps with the rights of way and construction on the primary roads.

He made it plain that the federal programs do not provide any funds for maintenance.

He said that in 1960 the county revenue totaled $350,166 for 1960 with $222,274, coming from county taxes and $127,892 from the state. The 1960 county tax digest totals approximately $14,000,000 with a net digest of $6,000,000.

He informed the Rotarians that the county's tax equalization program is progressing and, when completed will be a fair and equitable method of taxation to finance the county operations.

Mr. Gibson wishes it plainly understood that the "identification card" issued by the Chamber of Commerce in no way indicates an endorsement of the solicitation or project, nor does it obligate any citizen to make any contribution or to purchase any item . . . it merely indicates that the Chamber of Commerce has investigated and checked the project or group and has found the project or solicitation to be legitimate.

"The final decision to contribute or buy is with the individual," Mr. Gibson said. "But please be sure that the person seeking your money has an identification card. If not, then send him or her to the Chamber of Commerce office on North Main Street," he said.

Thus all solicitation will be cleared through the Chamber of Commerce and unworthy or fraudulent solicitations can be eliminated, saving the community money, time and worry.
